

Year Six, Fiscal Year 2011 Annual Report
(April 1, 2010 – March 31, 2011)

THE ROSA VERA FUND: DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS

Acronyms used in this report: RVF = Rosa Vera Fund CSRA = Rural Andean Health Counsel

PEDIATRIC MEDICAL/SOCIAL INTERVENTIONS

The RVF provides funding for curative and palliative therapies for selected pediatric cases. Covered services include hospitalizations, specialist consults, diagnostic studies, medications/nutrition, physical/speech therapy, surgery, therapeutic equipment, education-related costs, and travel-associated expenses for beneficiaries and their families.

During Year 6, the RVF invested in 90 children with a diversity of health care and social needs. While many of children have chronic health problems requiring long-term involvement, some required only a single intervention that resolved their issue. In addition, the RVF funds carefully selected “special pediatric cases”—children with significant and compelling diagnoses that require more expensive care and treatment. None of these interventions would have been possible without the support provided by RVF donors. Below are photos of some of our more involved cases.

Pediatric Case Spotlight: José David

José had a difficult start in life. Due to a traumatic delivery, he suffered permanent brain injury resulting from a lack of oxygen. Eleven years later—despite having dedicated parents, impressive self-determination and a charismatic personality—José cannot yet walk or talk on his own. Nor has he ever attended school. His lack of development and even further physical and mental deterioration over time was due to the absence of therapy and educational opportunity in his life.

Now with in-home physical therapy sessions that cost the RVF just $3/week, he is sitting on his own and using the wheelchair that we purchased for him. With his increased independence, his mother—who no longer needs to feed him in bed nor carry her growing boy on her back—has been able to secure employment outside of the home, improving the economic condition for the entire family. Perhaps most exciting of all is that school is once again on the horizon for José.

Total Investment in Year 6 = $222

ONE YEAR LATER: KARINA

DIAGNOSIS: KIDNEY FAILURE INTERVENTION: KIDNEY TRANSPLANT

"I am well again thanks to the help of many people. My health is much improved now. I am studying hard and getting good grades in school. I am very happy because in the past, I could not attend when I was sick. I used to feel very weak and at times did not want to wake up in the morning."

For reasons unknown to her doctors, Karina's kidneys began to fail when she was 9 years old. This very serious diagnosis of 'end-stage kidney disease' initiated a long journey for Karina and her devoted family -- and for the RVF. As a patient of the RVF since 2006, we were able to keep her alive with dialysis until her truly remarkable kidney transplant took place in July, 2010. Had it not been for the support of the RVF, her family, and our dedicated Bolivian colleagues, it is very unlikely that this charismatic and intelligent young woman would be alive today.

As in all cases that the RVF adopts, we are committed to Karina's case over time. Her surgery was in fact life-saving, but this was only the first step. We continue to invest in her future by helping her family acquire ongoing medications and ensure excellent follow-up with her specialists. We will also ensure that she receive any treatment necessary should she encounter complications along her way. As an organization, we are deeply committed to Karina so that she may reach her fullest potential.

Of note, Karina has been recently recognized by her transplant team as one of the recipients with the fewest post-operative complications ever seen.

"I, Karina, thank you with all my heart. I will not tire of thanking you for your help."

THERAPY CENTER & SCHOOL FOR CHILDREN WITH SPECIAL NEEDS

Many of the children enrolled in the RVF have complex medical conditions that require speech and physical therapy. These children require a safe, professional and stimulating environment in order to reach their physical and intellectual potential.

The RVF was honored to receive a grant of $20,000 from the Gould Family Foundation during Year Six. (www.gouldfamilyfoundation.org) This grant specifically funds the construction of a comprehensive therapy and educational center for children with special needs-- the first of its kind in the region.

Further funding received in memory of Joe Andriola (see pg 14) allowed this project to move forward with confidence, expedience and enhancements.

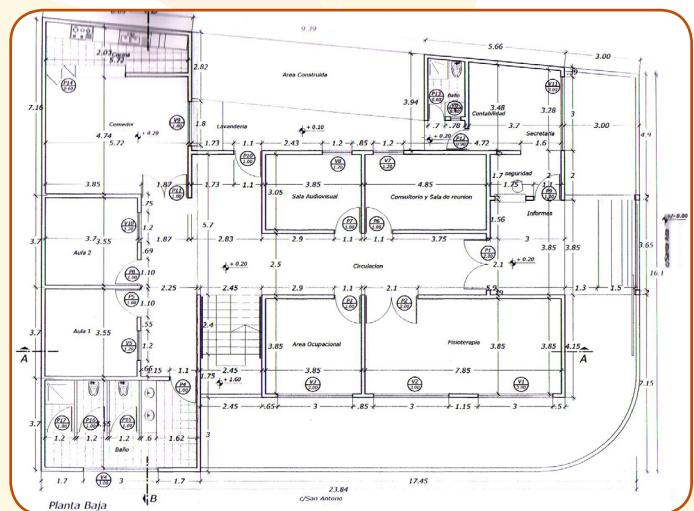

This building will offer children with special needs and their families the opportunity to access both therapy and education within their own community in a space that was designed specifically for their needs. No longer will a family spend far more time in travel than in therapy. In addition, the educational component will represent the very first time that many of these children have ever received formal schooling.

The RVF is tremendously grateful to the Gould Family Foundation and Joe's wife Judy Carty for this opportunity to make a unique and lasting difference to the community of Montero.

Estimated Cost of Phase One of Construction: $36,000

Site of future Therapy Center & School

Architectural plans were designed with the guidance of local professionals

"Since beginning my tenure as Chief Medical Officer, I have been struck by the number of children who would benefit from therapy--but don't receive it. I have come to understand that even with the financial assistance offered by the RVF, the barriers are just too high for most families to attend the necessary appointments over an hour away in the city of Santa Cruz. I am personally excited to be involved in bringing this incredible project to life. We know that the benefits of ongoing therapy and involvement in education for children with special needs are tremendous, and this center is going to make this possible for ALL of our children."

- Darlene Ray MD, RVF Chief Medical Officer

COMMUNITY HEALTH WORKER PROGRAM

The Community Health Worker Program is a highly effective grassroots initiative that trains and employs women and men from surrounding communities (all of whom have experienced poverty themselves) to provide critical prevention services focused primarily on women and children. Supported interventions include home vaccinations, health education, prenatal care, malnutrition therapy/weight checks, and follow-up on illness/compliance. Depending on their interests and skills, Community Health Workers may also fill other vital positions in the health center, such as work in medical records, pharmacy, and epidemiology.

A total of seven Community Health Workers received significant financial support from the RVF during Year 6. All rely on their RVF salary and benefits package as their primary income to support their family, as well as their educational and personal goals. Literally thousands of preventive interventions and vital tasks take place due to the efforts of our health workers.

Community Health Worker Spotlight: Carmen Salas

Carmen, 24 years old, LOVES her work as a RVF Community Health Worker. Since 2006, Carmen has served her impoverished community --house-by-house, despite myriad challenges--with a passion that one couldn't hope to teach. Carmen knows the health and social situation of literally EVERY man, woman and child in her designated area. She has provided thousands of vaccinations, countless hours of education, and has identified multiple at-risk children that directly benefited from support of the RVF. In addition to her salary and benefits, Carmen recently applied for and received a RVF scholarship to study nursing. Total Investment in Year 6 = $1,700

"My work with my community is my life, my passion. In order to survive, so many young women have to marry, clean homes, or sell clothing or soup in the market. I knew I could do so much more with my life. I thank you, the donors of the Rosa Vera Fund, for making my dream to better my community possible for me!" Carmen Salas

SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

The RVF Scholarship Program is available to any employee of the CSRA, with priority given to Community Health Workers and pediatric patients. The educational scholarship may be utilized for career training both within and outside of the health field. The RVF supported six scholarships during Year 6. We are pleased to see some of our original recipients completing their programs, which opens opportunity for new participants.

In a country where financial aid for education is extremely scarce, we are proud to play an integral role in the development of the personal goals and professionalization of these ambitious young men and women.

Spotlight: David Veizaga Alvarado

When David approached the RVF for work experience at age 16, we didn't have sufficient funding to employ him. That didn't stop David though--his determination led him to volunteer full time for the following two years. Now after six years with the RVF, at the age of 22, David has gained extensive work experience in many areas of the health clinics, including home visitation, peer-education for adolescents, computation and statistics. Although he enjoyed all of his experiences, he discovered that it is the field of optometry that enables him to express his talents in both technical work and direct patient care. David applied for and obtained a RVF scholarship to study in a two year program to become a Technician in Optometry in 2010. We are proud to report that he recently graduated second in his class, and is now working full time with CSRA in the career of his choosing. Total Investment in Year 6 = $1200

"Just like me, there are many others that hope for the chance to study and become a professional. This is very difficult in my country. I ask with all my heart that you continue to support the Rosa Vera Fund, so that this opportunity to better our lives is given to others like it was given to me." David Veizaga Alvarado

FROM PATIENT TO SCHOLAR: HUGO NELSON

BEFORE EYE SURGERY

AFTER EYE SURGERY

IN THE CLASSROOM

Hugo was a 13 year old boy when he was introduced to the RVF in 2005. His diagnosis was trichiasis, a condition in which the eyelashes grow inward. Although his vision was normal, for many years his eyes suffered from chronic and severe irritation and infections. At the time of his evaluation, he was no longer able to study and could only crack his eyes open just enough to slowly guide himself. On top of this, his family lived in abject poverty. Put simply, Hugo's condition was one of the most disturbing and compelling cases that the RVF has had the opportunity to intervene in. A simple surgery and just $157 later, Hugo could once again see clearly and participate fully in life.

The RVF ensured that Hugo re-entered school, and he quickly became one of the best students in his class. Although his life seemed to be improving, Hugo returned home one day to find his mother had disappeared. He had been abandoned. Homeless, he came to our Bolivian partner CSRA for help. With funds from the RVF, Hugo was ensured a safe place to live and continuation of his studies.

After graduating from high school, Hugo applied to the RVF for a scholarship to study mechanics in a technical school. With great pleasure, he was awarded his scholarship.

Hugo's case represents the power of the RVF's central methodology: we are focused on quality and we follow through over time. Although alleviation of suffering is certainly a valuable goal in of itself, ensuring Hugo has a productive future has without doubt added unquantifiable value to our donors' investment.

"I don't have parents anymore. But I do have the Rosa Vera Fund. Some of my friends laugh at me, but I know that someday I'm going to use my skills of fixing motorcycles and cars to help others in need."

– Hugo Nelson Torres

TOTAL INVESTMENT IN YEAR 6: $65

2ND ANNUAL RVF WORK TRIP: MAY 2010

For one week in May, 2010, the RVF was honored to host its second work team. Alongside their Bolivian colleagues, a team of four highly-qualified community physicians from the United States continued the intensive work of examining new patients, as well as evaluating progress of existing cases. The volunteers developed a plan detailing care for the following year of every child enrolled in the RVF.

The trip was once again highly successful, with all objectives being met. As before, a great deal of professional, organizational and cultural interchange took place, all with the purpose of advancing the mission of the RVF. Representing a major step forward, Darlene Ray accepted the position of Chief Medical Officer.

Our volunteers not only sacrificed time away from their work and families, but were also required to cover all trip expenses and to make a significant donation. The RVF is indebted to each of our volunteers for their generous personal and professional contributions.

"What an eye opening experience this was for me! I was VERY impressed with how efficiently the Rosa Vera Fund operates. We were able to do so much to truly improve the lives of so many with so little. This would be impossible for me to accomplish in my work as a pediatrician in the United States."

Lisa Hunt MD

The RVF would like to express gratitude to the Women & Children's Hope Foundation for covering meal expenses for our volunteers and Bolivian colleagues during work days.

IN HONOR AND IN MEMORY

Joe Andriola

Joe Andriola, a strong supporter of the RVF, tragically lost his life in a car accident while traveling in China in January, 2011. Joe's wife Judy Carty asked that donations be made to the RVF in Joe's honor. These donations have totaled more than $16,000 thus far, and will provide critical funding for the construction of the Therapy Center & School for Children with Special Needs. (See page 5)

María Fernanda

Maria Fernanda, a RVF special pediatric case, passed away from leukemia in February, 2011, at the age of 14 years. Due to the generous support of many RVF donors, she was granted not only a chance at life, but a dignified death. Maria's perseverance inspired all involved in her case, and her smile is dearly missed.

RVF YEAR SIX (FY'11) FINANCIAL REPORT

Fiscal Information

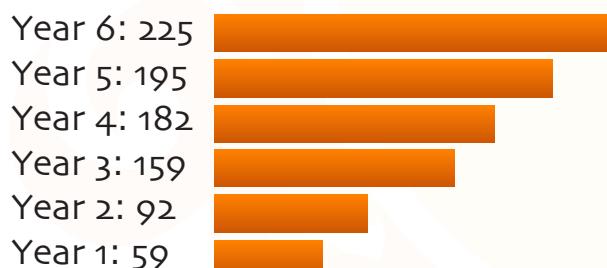

Year Six was the RVF's best year yet. As in prior years, the large majority of our funds were gifted from individuals and families.

The RVF remains fiscally conservative, maintaining a reserve fund in case of emergency need or a future shortfall.

ABOUT US / HOW TO DONATE

ABOUT THE ROSA VERA FUND

The Rosa Vera Fund, Inc. (RVF) is a grassroots non-profit 501(c)(3) tax exempt organization whose programs are based in the impoverished region of Montero, Bolivia, operating in partnership with the respected Bolivian nonprofit organization Rural Andean Health Counsel (El Consejo de Salud Rural Andino). The mission of the RVF is to facilitate preventive, medical, and educational interventions for children, and opportunities for health workers that would not otherwise be possible.

Each donation to the RVF is divided among three fundamental goals: medical/social interventions for children, employment opportunity for health workers, and education. A portion of each donation provides preventive and curative care for children with special healthcare needs. Another portion is spent on empowering local women and men by training them to serve as healthcare workers within their own community. Scholarship funds are available for motivated health workers and patients to advance themselves professionally. Please feel free to contact any of our board members directly for any questions or ideas you may have.
